

Jamie Zuccaro Recognized at the Southeast Michigan Disabilities Expo at Cobo Hall

Jamie Zuccaro accepting her Employer's Recognition Award from Donald Hill with John King in the background.

October 16, 2009. Jamie Zuccaro's smile lit up the breakfast which kicked off the Southeast Michigan Disabilities Expo at Cobo Hall today. STEP was proud to nominate Jamie in recognition of her positive contributions to the workday at the Dearborn Resource Center. Every day Jamie makes a positive difference in the lives of the people she greets, getting everyone off to a good start upon their arrival in the morning, providing support and encouragement throughout the day, and seeing them off at the end of the workday.

Jamie is a true role model for persons with disabilities. Her excellent attendance and commitment to her work schedule ensures that all of her work is completed to satisfaction. She is willing to learn and assume new responsibilities. We can depend upon her to make a good impression with all of customers and stakeholders.

Jamie is a valuable employee who happens to have a disability. Her strength, determination, and expectation in the face of odds are both inspiring and yet what we have come to expect of her. She is truly worthy of this recognition as a positive force in, and a contributor to, our organization and community.